

THIS FIRST ISSUE of the new year is generally a always a confused one, in a sort of neither fish nor fowl way, if you know what we mean.

No one, of course, is ready to start writing "1966".

Very few seem ready to concede that the new year is really under way.

It is too close to the hectic Christmas-New Year season that has been going full blast since Thanksgiving.

THERE IS A REAL let down and a spinning of wheels as we all try to get going again.

We find this is especially true on this newspaper in the first issue in the new year, as we try to adjust from the two holidays that always come a week apart at the end of the year.

Even knowing that the two holidays are coming doesn't seem to help much.

It seems always to be a confusing time.

But don't get us wrong, we still love every minute of it.

Even if this first issue of the year suffers as a result, the Christmas season is worth it all.

EXAMPLES of good old Christmas spirit bubbling over are many and varied. Maybe that is another reason it is so difficult to get going in the new year. It was so pleasant while it lasted.

Take what happened to us on the highway on Christmas evening as we were returning from Merced as a case in point.

Our car uncooperatively ran out of gas half-way between Gilroy and San Martin.

Dorothy coasted it to a stop close to a side-road which goes over the railroad track and cars must stop to go onto 101. She blinked the lights as a car came up to the stop sign. We ran over to explain our predicament.

The guy couldn't speak English, but he did understand, fortunately, "out of gas". He took us first to San Martin but gas stations there were closed. He turned around and transported us back to Gilroy.

He waited for us to get a can filled with gasoline then took us back to the car and waited to see if our car would start.

HE REFUSED ANY money for his unselfish act.

Because of the language barrier (we don't know a word of Portuguese) our communication was poor.

But the final handshake between us that cold and wet Christmas night eliminated the need of words.

Incidentally, Dorothy and "Checkers" stayed in the car while we went traveling.

No one stopped or even slowed down, Dorothy reported, during our absence.

SUNKEN GARDEN-- With no warning beforehand, a circular area in the front yard of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Moore at 240 S. First St., gave 'way last week

Commission rejects new gas station on Winchester

A proposed gas station ran out of gas before it could get started at the Planning Commission meeting Monday night.

Just because there is no service station now between the southern city limits of Campbell and the center of Los Gatos apparently is no reason that there has to be one in that location.

That was the reasoning of the Planning Commission Monday night in denying a use permit for a service station on the southwest corner of Winchester Blvd. and W. Parr Ave., across the street from the Los Gatos town limits. The request for the use permit was made by William I. Clark, one of the owners of the property and who operates the "Burger Pit" chain of restaurants. He claimed that the station was necessary because there was no major service station to the south (in Los Gatos) for 2 1/2 miles.

The area in question is now zoned C-H (highway commercial) and Dick Hogan, planning director, in recommending denial said that the granting of the permit would prevent any future desirable C-H development.

NEW CHAIRMAN-- Hal Lee was elected chairman of the Planning Commission for 1966 on Monday night. He succeeds Thayer Lyons, Jack Healey was named vice-chairman.

New sign on old store causes minor uproar

Will two huge signs (one on each street) estimated to cost $10,000 improve or detract from the esthetic appearance of the old Clark Drugs building at Harrison and Campbell?

That's the question the Planning Commission now has up for grabs after a marathon session on Monday night that lasted until the wee hours of the morning.

The sign on the old drug store building now being remodeled was only one of the items on the lengthy agenda. But it accounted for most of the wrinkled brows of the commissioners as they pondered the proposed radical change to the outside appearance of the building. American Auto Supply, now located across the street, is planning to occupy the drug store building.

POLICE GET ADDED POWER-- Campbell's police department has acquired two new Dodge patrol cars purchased via a state contract.

The cars are the same as those used by the California Highway Patrol and have 440-cubic-inch engines and 122-inch wheel base. Listed at approximately $4000 the city through the state contract obtained them for

What does public want in "plan"?

What kinds of uses should be allowed in the future downtown area of Campbell?

Where should the commercial, office and high density zones be placed?

How should they be related to each other and what area should be included in plans for the downtown development?

Those were some of the questions that Dick Hogan, city planning director, emphasized this week that would be taken up at the public hearing on the downtown development plan on Monday, Jan. 17.

Basically the area involved extends on both sides of Campbell Ave. from Winchester between Rincon and Latimer to Harrison but Hogan explained that residents on such streets as Alice, Sunny-side and Kennedy could also be affected.

The hearing on Jan. 17, Hogan added, is not the "legal" type but is for informational purposes to attempt to learn how property owners and residents in the area feel about future development plans.

Thayer Lyons, planning commission chairman, said that residents and property owners at the hearing will be encouraged to participate in the discussions and to make their desires known.

County offices change heads

County office heads changed Monday when Charles A. Quinn became chairman of the Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors and Charles Praelnik was named new County Sheriff.

Praelnik succeeds Sheriff John Gibbons who retired Monday at the age of 67 after almost 40 years of service as a police officer. It was upon his recommendation that county supervisors appointed Undersheriff Praelnik to the sheriffs position.

Quinn succeeds Supervisor Sig Sanchez as chairman of the board.

C.of C. directors to name officers

Directors of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, expanded this year for the first time to a board of 15 members, were scheduled to elect their officers for 1966 at a noon luncheon meeting today.

Nine new directors and six carry-over members make up the board of directors for the new year. Of the nine who were elected last month, however, two of them, Eugene Kelley, of the First National Bank, vice-president, and Harry C. Lind, of the First Valley Bank, also served as directors last year.

Dick Hardy, of the Ainsley Corp., currently serving as president, succeeded Ron Tharp, of IBM, as president in September when Tharp was transferred to the east coast. Hardy, who was vice-president at the time, is expected to be named to a full term as president this year.

A vice-president will also be elected as well as treasurer. Bill Oltmann, local public accountant, is treasurer at the present time.

Top item of interest on the agenda today was the annual installation dinner which will take place at the Villa Felice on Thursday, Jan. 20. Director Dick Bersano, of The Villa Felice, will report on plans for the affair which is expected to draw a capacity crowd. Tickets are $6.25 per person for the event.

In addition to Kelley and Lind the new directors of the C. of C. are James B. Baker, attorney; Tony Bonaccorso, Bank of America; Bill Brown, Campbell Office Machines; William Kuhlman, M. D.; Meryl MacLean, MacLean's Men's and Boys' Wear; Lee Sicard, Pacific Telephone and George Vierhus, The Campbell Press.

In addition to Hardy

Oltmann and Bersano, hold-over directors include, Elton Admire, Campbell Community Hospital; John Faber, Campbell Memorial Chapel; and Richard Andis, IBM.

Split council faces gas station test on Monday

Campbell's controversial so-called "gas station control" ordinance is scheduled to face its long-awaited final test at the City Council meeting next Monday, Jan. 10, before a divided council.

Whether three affirmative votes can be mustered for its passage is problematical.

In another action Monday, the council is expected to act on the appeal of Bill Oltmann, owner of property at 2275 Winchester Blvd. at El Caminito on which a drive-in restaurant is planned.

The Planning Commission approved the plans for the drive-in but specified that there could be no entry to it from Winchester.

Oltmann, through the leasing agent, Coldwell Banker Inc., is asking the City Council to allow a driveway onto Winchester. They claim it would not interfere with the traffic flow on that busy street as maintained by Bill Wren, acting city engineer, and other staff personnel.

The council is also expected to discuss the plans and specifications for the Budd Ave. storm drain project and the proposed downtown off-street parking district.

A revised questionnaire of the Parks and Recreation Commission will also be up for council approval and it is also expected that a new planning commission member will be appointed.

Interviews with prospective candidates have been held by a council sub-committee and the committee will make its recommendation on Monday night.

Editorial

It will be a big year

As the new year barely gets under way, we get the impression from civic leaders that this community seems to be on the "launching pad" ready to take off for the greatest development in its 13-year history.

As a cynical newspaperman, we recognize that Chamber of Commerce officials are expected to sound optimistic and that city officials must also fulfill certain objectives to which they can point with pride.

Newspapers deal with facts and not fantasy. Thus a newspaper cannot paint glowing pictures of the future without a sound basis from which to start.

But, as we start 1966, some of this optimism has rubbed off on us. As we take a glance at some of the projects that are in the "hopper" we have become convinced that 1966 for Campbell is going to be a year of development and improvement.

We are well aware that growth alone is not enough to make for a stable community. In our opinion, to be the "fastest growing city in California" would be an empty honor, if certain basic fundamentals were overlooked.

What we are trying to say is that this optimistic viewpoint for 1966 for this community that we have now acquired by exposure, if you will, has nothing to do with any population explosion on a major or minor basis.

Basically, we think, it can be best described as a sort of a consolidation of the many facets the community has going for it now, a sort of "firming up" policy, as it were.

To be specific in one instance let's take the next 12 months a definite pattern will be established for the transforming of the much-maligned downtown Campbell Ave. area into an attractive and modern "hub" of the community.

Long range planning involves a civic center complex and better traffic flow by developing parallel through streets.

We also think that during the next 12 months, there will be action taken in the development of Los Gatos Creek into an attractive recreational downtown Campbell Ave. situation. During 1966 we feel certain that plans for this area will crystallize into something tangible.

Even if the downtown parking districts do not come into existence (although we admit this is the logical first step) we believe that during the area through the cooperation of the various governmental agencies involved.

During 1966 we are convinced also that the Campbell Chamber of Commerce will forego its long dormant role in the community and become the active, aggressive and progressive organization that the community has long needed.

Under the management of Jim Duffield and a dedicated group of directors, the Chamber appears now ready to lead the way as a co-partner with the city administration in the building of a better community.

The Press is so convinced that the C. of C. is on the verge of a new era that we are cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce in a special progress report that will appear on Jan. 19.

This is an ambitious undertaking but we feel that it is one way of emphasizing the important part a C. of C. can, will and should play in a community such as this. We are pleased to use all the resources we can muster to get this "message" across.

The special issue will appear, appropriately, in time for the annual installation of officers for the Chamber of Commerce on Jan. 20.

There are many other situations and developments that can be expected during the next 12 months that will also give evidence that this community of ours is "growing up".

In some areas of expansion, such as parks and recreation, civic center, and fire department etc., it will be necessary for the people to decide how far they want to go via the bond route, for it is obvious that no major improvements can be made on a pay as you go basis.

We think this community should be prepared to undertake an adequate bond issue during the next 12 months in order to obtain the necessary major improvements.

To summarize, 1966 will be a big year.

But we think it will be a year we will all remember as the beginning of a new era for Campbell.

It has been a long time coming.

Apartment pool claims life

Donald J. O'Neil, Jr., 5, drowned Monday morning in an apartment house swimming pool located at 1008 Ravenscourt Dr.

The 10:20 a.m. accident apparently occurred when the boy fell off his skateboard and into the water. He was being cared for by Mrs. Dorothy Olsen, Apt. 2 of the Ravenscourt Dr. address.

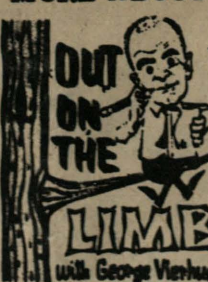

Mrs. Olsen looked out of the bedroom window to check on the small boy who had gone outside to play only minutes before. Seeing something floating in the pool, Mrs. Olsen jumped in, carried the boy to poolside and attempted mouth-to-mouth resuscitation before calling the Campbell Fire Department.

find our good Samaritan.

But the experience was an unforgettable one, a fitting climax to the Christmas season of 1965.

TRADITIONALLY on Christmas Day fathers and grandfathers have a great time playing with the toys the youngsters get. We have all heard about and have seen adults taking over on the living room floor "showing" the kids how to run their electric trains and other gadgets.

In many instances the youngsters don't get a chance to play with their toys until the adults have finished.

Take Jim Duffield, the efficient C. of C. manager, as a for instance. Jim is a graduate engineer and so is his son-in-law, Howard Westgate, of Lockheed.

NATURALLY they both had to "check out" the electric slot-racer that Susan, Jim's eight-year old granddaughter, received for Christmas.

The "checking out" took quite a spell. But when little Susan finally had a chance to play with the slot-racer, it wouldn't work.

Naturally, the little gal was mighty unhappy with her daddy and granddaddy. But having two engineers in the family came in handy. They took the machine apart and practically rebuilt it. And it ran.

At the last report, Susan was again enjoying her slot-racer with a minimum amount of interference from the engineers.

OUR SOMEWHAT facetious efforts to call attention to the "worst" intersection in town through a mythical contest of completing a sentence with 25 words or less telling "why" has brought forth a number of little gems.

To summarize it, there are some real dillies in town.

As you may recall, we sort of pushed Campbell-Bascom because of the intricacies involved. (You make a turn when you are going straight ahead).

Hamilton-Bascom was a late starter but has come up fast, especially from those who want to make a left turn from Bascom onto Hamilton when the traffic is heavy. (One guy said he waited through four signal changes. And those are long signals.)

We also learned at a recent City Council meeting that the cost of traffic signal maintenance is going up.

The city has a contract with the state to maintain the signals at Hamilton-Bascom; Bascom-Campbell and Hamilton-Winchester.

THE CITY was informed by the state that the original allotment of $2400 for the fiscal year is almost depleted. In the past years it has been enough to cover the whole year but the state claims that another $3000 is needed based on the experience so far this year. The fiscal year doesn't end until June 30.

The state reported that aside from the usual maintenance service, there have been 37 trouble calls

Fire hydrants worry planners

Requirements by the Campbell Fire Department specified in the conditions for approval of plans by the Planning Commission for two proposed buildings with criticism from the applicants and also from commissioners on Monday night at the Planning Commission meeting.

In approving the plans with the fire department requirements, the commissioners claimed their hands were tied but they went on record as opposed to the conditions as being a hardship for the individual applicant.

The application of Calvin D. Falcom for a warehouse in the Dell Ave. area (on Lost Lake Lane) was approved by the commission.

The approval included the offending requirement that a 4-inch stand pipe be installed. Falcom claimed that this would work an unnecessary hardship on him and would be too expensive. He said other property owners in the area should participate.

In the other instance, the commission approved the plans for expanded facilities for the animal hospital operated by Dr. C. E. Jacobsen at 130 Casey Road.

The fire department had asked that a fire hydrant be installed and that the applicant pay five-year rental fee of $195. Dr. Jacobsen wondered why he should be forced to carry the entire load for the hydrant whereas other developments in the area would also get the use of it.

In both cases, Commissioner Thayer Lyons, who was succeeded as chairman at the start of the meeting by Hal Lee, said that he felt that the fire department requirement in the first five months that expended $2000.

"The intersection at Hamilton and Winchester, in particular, has been particularly troublesome," the letter from the state noted.

It seems obvious then that traffic signals don't always solve the woes and goes at an intersection.

Further the deponeth sayeth not.

was unfair to a single applicant. Several other commissioners indicated their agreement with Lyon's point. In other actions Monday night, the commission:

--APPROVED the plans for a warehouse building at 381 McGlincey Lane submitted by Elmo Pardini after several conditions that the applicant thought unnecessary had been removed.

--APPROVED the plans for an industrial building at 1320 Dell Ave. submitted by Jack Craig.

--APPROVED the plans for a parking lot at 250 E. Campbell Ave. (entrance on Campbell with exit on the alley) as submitted by Tony Raffanti.

--APPROVED (after considerable discussion) the plans for a storage yard at 199 Dillon as requested by O. M. Martin. The property is owned by the Baptist Church on Railway Ave. and backs up to the church property on that street.

The church plans to develop the property on Railway into parking lots. The shingle firm, owned by Martin, plans to unload railroad cars on Railway with a fork lift and transport the material across the parking lot to the new storage lot on Dillon. It was specified that the parking lot would be reinforced to allow for this heavy use.

New sign

66-foot, was presented by Larry M. Rearic, of Adart of San Jose. He explained that his firm not only made signs but also had gone into the store-front phase and that the signs which would cover the marque on the structure would modernize and improve the looks of the building.

The signs would extend from the building in a sort of box-like manner, it was explained. The brick exterior of the first story of the building would remain but the sign would extend to the lower part of the windows on the second floor.

Dick Hogan, planning director, maintained that the Downtown Development Committee has been working for a long time to restore or revitalize the Campbell Ave. buildings and he felt that the proposed sign would not be in keeping with the other architectural styles on the street.

Commission members decided that they needed to study the situation more thoroughly. They asked Rearic to bring in more sketches of the plans to the next meeting. They also agreed to visit places where a similar type of sign had been installed.

In another sign action, the commission approved the request of the Mobil Oil Co. for one four-sided sign at the service station at Hamilton and Bascom which consolidates the various services of the

New city lighting district gets okay

Without fanfare the City of Campbell on Monday at 3 p.m. went into the street lighting business. Although it will be Jan. 1, 1967 before the city actually begins administering the new Campbell Lighting District.

The City Council officially approved the consolidation of the five lighting districts within the city limits at a public hearing Monday afternoon. In order to get the district off the ground by Jan. 1, 1967, the state Board of Equalization specified that notification of approval by the council had to be postmarked before midnight last Monday. Hence the 3 p.m. hearing.

Under recent state legislation, the county, which had administered the five lighting districts within the city, was allowed to consolidate all such districts in unincorporated areas and turn over the administration of districts within city limits station. The signs 10-foot-high. The commission directed that other signs at the station be removed.

Also in the sign field, the commission enthusiastically approved the proposed sign for "Home-Art" at 46 E. Campbell Ave. This firm recently purchased Strong Paint Co. at that location. The sign design would improve the entire store front, Hogan told the commission.

to the cities involved. Campbell and Saratoga had been the last cities to make the transfer.

In the past the county has levied a lighting district tax which has been part of the county tax bill. In the future the tax will be levied by Campbell.

Bill Wren, acting city engineer, revealed that under the city setup, there will be a uniform tax instead of varying from district to district. Under the county operation, the lowest tax was 17 cents and the highest was 23 cents. Wren said that the city tax would probably fall in between.

Wren also indicated that it was more advantageous for the city to operate a lighting district as it would mean just one bookkeeping situation instead of five.

There is a possibility, he noted on an optimistic note, that the tax rate could drop, if the reserve was built up. He said that it was estimated that the cost per year for the five districts was $38,000 which would be a amount needed to be raised by taxation.

RAIN DROPS

Last week's rainstorm measured 2.65 inches, bringing the season and yearly total to 9.04 as of Dec. 31, according to the Campbell Water Co. figures. Last year recorded 9.15 at the end of the year with 4.90 inches of rain as normal for the season.

This year, 7,600 men and $279 million will build more and better PG&E Service.

Every working day this year, PG&E will invest more than 1 million construction dollars in more and better service. This money provides more than 7,600 construction jobs, stimulates business and adds property to tax rolls, supporting local schools and government. Our 1966 construction program does something constructive for just about everyone.

Car owners can get registration at bank

Wells Fargo Bank in Campbell is one of the 150 banks throughout California cooperating in the Department of Motor Vehicles' annual registration program that began on Monday, Jan. 3.

Vehicle owners may pay fees and obtain 1966 registration without penalty until Feb. 4.

According to Tom Bright, director of motor vehicles, owners of more than 11 million autos, trucks, trailers, motorcycles and other vehicles will apply for 1966 registration during the five-week period.

DMV officials emphasize that, although the specified banks provide window space for DMV personnel, only persons with registration renewal cards, mailed last week to California motorists, will be able to renew registrations and receive 1966 plate stickers at the bank stations.

Persons without renewal cards should take last year's registration documents to the nearest office of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

On payment of fees, the stub of the renewal statement cards is validated and becomes a 1966 registration card. The Department of Motor Vehicles also will issue chrome yellow reflectorized stickers, which must be affixed to the upper right corner of the rear license plates.

Throughout the state there are 146 full-time DMV offices. In this area, there are offices in both San Jose and Los Gatos.

Bright adds that owners may also renew their vehicle registrations by mailing the punched card statements, along with fees, according to directions printed on the backs of the cards.

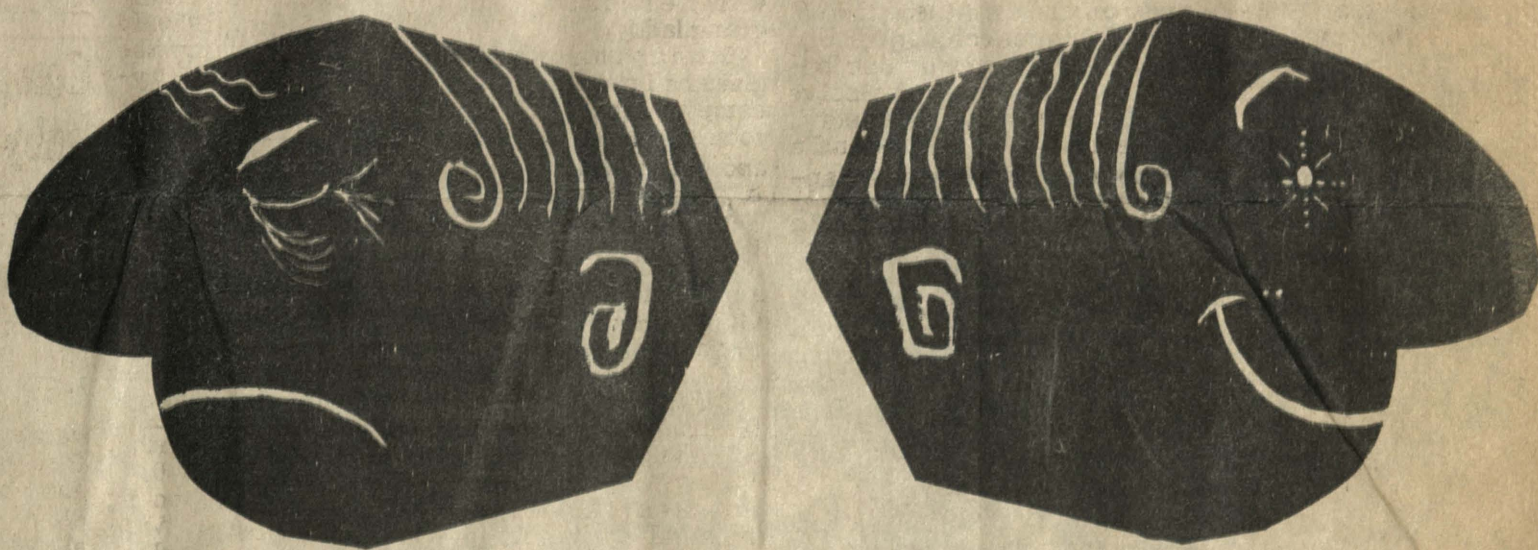

Any new California resident registering an out-of-state vehicle in California must apply to a DMV office within 30 days of the expiration of his out-of-state license plates.

Hawaiian choir entertains at local Grange

A Hawaiian choir dressed in typical Hawaiian gowns with yellow leis entertained the members of Orchard City Grange at their last meeting. Irene Leroy was in charge and they dedicated their last song, "Aloha" to retiring lecturer Alfreda Van Natter. Mrs. Myrtle Geissel also sang a number, accompanied by Mrs. Nila Jones at the piano.

Master Al McCoy conducted the business meeting. Due to the stormy weather the attendance was light. Mrs. Leslie Fairchild reported on the following absences: Mrs. Verna Bawcom is in the Good Samaritan Hospital, Los Gatos, recovering from surgery; Adrian McMahon will undergo surgery Jan. 7; Lucille Woodside, Dorothy Tyson and Goldie Glick are all on the sick list.

The next meeting of the Home Economics Committee will be at 1 p. m. at the Grange Hall on Friday, Jan. 14. Election of officers for this group was held and the following were selected: Dorothy Keesling, secretary; Barbara Carter, vice chairman. PROGRESS EDITION

CO-SPONSORED BY THE
and The Campbell Press

SPECIAL BULLETIN TO ALL MEMBERS CAMPBELL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Campbell Press is planning a Special Progress Report co-sponsored by the Campbell Chamber of Commerce and The Campbell Press to be published Wednesday, January 19th.

This edition will consist mainly of the work program, committee structure, and so forth for the year of 1966. In addition, the front page will be devoted in its entirety to Chamber news.

The number of pages will depend, of course, on the advertising lineage sold. An edition of at least 24 pages is desired. Most of the ads will be congratulatory or institutional in nature.

Copies of this edition will be at each place card at the annual banquet, January 20, 1966.

In addition to copies at the annual banquet, The Campbell Press will give an extra circulation of 5,000 copies in the immediate area.

As time is of the essence, a member of the advertising department of The Campbell Press will call upon you in the immediate future. Any cooperation that you may show him will be sincerely appreciated by the officers and directors of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce.

ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

This is being written on Dec. 18 in an airplane high over the Atlantic, flying toward home and Christmas on the last leg of a long, tiring, difficult and exciting journey around the world. We have been looking into military supply problems, most of which are of a secret nature that I cannot discuss here.

Of course, the most impressive part of the trip, the thing that touches the heart most deeply, was the mingled agony and courage in Vietnam. I have written separately of what I saw there, though again most of it is sensitive military information.

But there are other pictures left indelibly in the mind's eye: the hustle and crowding of Tokyo at evening; the incredible beauty and the unbelievable squalor of Hong Kong; the grim, gray vistas of Taipei; the struggle for cleanliness on the busy waters of Bangkok; the desperate existence of Ceylon's poor;

Stark tales of justice in Saudi Arabia (where thievery automatically is punished by severing of a hand); the sad, has-been quality of Istanbul, whose glory seems all in the past; the struggle against rising prices in Europe; the multitudes and poverty of the Far East.

I think of vistas too—a gorgeous sunrise over the desert, the glittering view at night from Hong Kong's storied hills, the mountains of Syria, Fujiyama rising above the clouds. But mostly

I think of people and the way they live on this troubled earth.

An old phrase keeps running through my mind—a trite truth one must learn for himself—"You are lucky to be born an American".

The standard of living of the average American is something that many people of the world cannot even imagine. If you tried to explain it to them they wouldn't believe you. Just the number of calories eaten daily by the average American would feed whole families in many parts of the world.

I have seen places where people spend almost all of their waking hours in the constant effort to get enough food just to stay alive. Only an acceptable level to the average American is unparalleled luxury to most people of Asia.

But the contrast that makes one appreciate America most is not the prosperity, the great efficiency, the marvel of adequate housing, but simply the element of promise. Americans can hope for something better and they have the opportunity to work for it.

What depresses one most about the poverty of much of the world is its hopelessness. In Hong Kong there are acres of junks, boats not 40 feet long, on which whole families live.

Generations of Chinese have been born, lived and died on such junks without ever knowing any other home. Other generations follow them, living on boats or in settlements where a family of four is allotted a room ten feet by ten feet. Their poverty is inescapable!

The trite truth that America is the land of opportunity and the place where there is always a hope for a better tomorrow now has new meaning! I have learned that Mrs. Gubser's boy is a very lucky Charlie.

Bank expects economic growth of state to pick up in 1966

California's rate of economic growth, which had slowed down noticeably during the past couple of years, should pick up again slightly in 1966, according to Bank of America economists.

At the same time, the rest of the nation should continue its five-year-old economic expansion, with relatively stable prices despite the sharp increase in federal defense spending in connection with Viet Nam, the bank predicted in its 1966 "Economic Outlook" published this week by the economic research department.

Personal income in California should rise about 6.2 percent above the 1965 level and should total more than $63 billion in 1966. The rate of income growth for 1965 is currently estimated at 5.9 percent.

Part of the improving situation will reflect a modest rise in aerospace-electronics employment in the state during 1966, according to the bank's economists. This industry, which has provided much of California's "boom" a few years back, went into employment decline during the past couple of years, but these declining trends were reversed during 1965.

The military build-up in Viet Nam is not expected to provide substantial stimulus to the state's aerospace-electronics industries, but it should provide a boost to other sectors of the California economy, such as transportation and wholesaling, shipyards, and in areas around training bases. Passage of the pay increase for military personnel and federal civilian employees should also aid the rise in state incomes.

All of this will provide a basis for continued growth in a wide variety of trade and service industries, the Bank of America report states. In addition, local and state government employment increases to meet the rising demands for educational, medical and related services, also are expected. Only in the construction field, the report predicts, will employment be likely to decline below year-ago levels.

Retail sales in the state also should push to new record levels, and there is a possibility of some further moderate reductions in unemployment in California.

Agricultural activity in 1966 should continue to provide a stimulant to the state economy, Bank of America predicted. However, it said, further mechanization spurred on by recent sharp increases in labor costs, is expected to accelerate the long term downward trend in total California agricultural employment.

For the nation as a whole, the bank report predicted that next year's expansionary forces should take on a slightly different pattern than in the past year, with the most substantial change being an increase in federal spending due to the conflict in Viet Nam.

The bank economists were optimistic about the chances of inflationary forces being contained despite a declining unemployment rate and higher utilization rate of the nation's productive resources than at any time since mid-1957.

"The approach to a full employment economy need not necesssarily result in sharply rising prices," the report states. It further points out that continued strong growth in the labor force and the boost to productive capacity that will stem from new plant facilities coming into line in 1966 should more than meet the growth in demand.

Nationally, also, the bank economists predicted a consumer spending to rise at a slightly slower pace than in 1965 due to a leveling off in durable goods expenditures, auto sales to be only slightly less than in 1965, and the balance of payments deficit next year to be close to this year's total, unless overseas lending and investment restraints become more stringent, or the foreign trade surplus

A new automatic pistol the youth had received as a Christmas present was found beside the body. There was a .22 caliber bullet hole in his left temple, and two unspent shells in the magazine of the pistol. No notes were found. Services were conducted from Campbell Memorial Chapel.

Westmont cage quint wins one

For the Westmont Varsity cage quint, the Christmas season was not too merry, as the Warriors managed only one win in five contests, a 59-55 decision over Burlingame in the Mountain View Tournament. The Warriors finished sixth out of eight teams.

After the tournament, Westmont bowed 57-56 in the last seconds to Overfelt, and then was nipped 61-56 by Los Altos, Gary Ledesma hit his seasons high—19 points—against Los Altos, including his first six shots.

Jan. 7, Westmont hopes to get the New Year off on a happy note with a win over Del Mar to start WVVA play. The Warriors, 4-5 as of Jan. 1, must contain a torrid Don fast break.

Obituaries

Hermann Gerdt's, county water leader, dies

Hermann J. Gerdt's, 60, a long-time leader in the field of water conservation and agriculture in the county, died last Tuesday in a San Jose hospital after a prolonged illness.

He had been manager of Campbell Cooperative Dryer and superintendent of Plant 1 of Sunsweet Growers in Campbell since 1948. Gerdt's, who also operated a prune ranch on Jarvis Road and other ranch properties for his family, was president of the Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation District and was rated as an outstanding authority on water problems in the area.

His ties with the Valley go back to 1886 when his parents, the late Nicklaus and Gretchen Gerdt's, migrated from Germany. They farmed land along what is now Downer Ave.

Gerdt's was well versed in farm financing and water problems due to his SCV-WCD affiliation, his working knowledge of the land and as president of the San Jose Production Credit Association.

He also was a member of the California Farm Bureau Federation, State Labor Committee, chairman of the Agriculture Industry Committee of the Bay Area Air Pollution District and sponsoring committee member for Santa Clara County Four-H clubs.

He was elected last spring by the 28 production credit associations in the 11th Farm Credit Market, comprising California, Arizona, Nevada and Utah, as representative on the Employees' Retirement Plan Committee.

Previously he was a member of the board of the Matthew Susanj Youth Center, the Santa Clara County Committee of the National Conservation Needs Inventory Committee, a director of Orchard Supply Hardware and the U. S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of Santa Clara County.

Gerdt's for 19 years was employed by the Burroughs Corp. as a special factory representative and a management and personnel supervisor on assignments in the United States, Mexico, Canada and Europe.

Surviving are his wife, Evelyn (Hart); a daughter, Mrs. Joan Stapleton of Los Angeles; a brother, Henry F. of San Jose, and an aunt, Mrs. Hannah Dabel of San Jose.

Memorial services were held at 1:30 p. m. Thursday in Oak Hill Mortuary's Chapel of Roses.

College board studies plans for bond issue

When to attempt another bond election, what specific proposals to present and how much to seek were among questions which occupied the West Valley College governing board last week.

At the request of Trustee William J. Homan, the board members discussed in open meeting possible bond proposals they expect to make to meet the coming tide of students.

"I want us to get on a sound, long range financial basis so that the people who are going to benefit most from our program will be the ones to pick up the tab," Homan said. These, he said, would be the parents of future students.

The trustees were in unanimous agreement that the question of a bond proposal should properly be considered by the district's 30-member advisory committee. Edward A. Panelli said he particularly wanted the committee to consider and make recommendations as to what the total campus building program should be.

Pacific Telephone plans new equipment and buildings

Pacific Telephone plans to spend some $438 million for new equipment and buildings in California during 1966, President E. Hornsby Wasson said today.

"This is a large program in view of our seriously low earnings situation," Wasson said. "But it is a necessary one if we are to do the job of meeting the growing communications needs of our state."

"Over the long pull, our financial condition must improve if we are to provide all the new and varied types of communications services that we are sure Californians will want."

"Thus, better earnings are the key to our long-range service objectives. We have faith that ultimately this will be fully recognized."

The planned 1966 California construction program includes $146 million for new central office switching equipment, $31 million for land and buildings, $95 million will be for facilities placed underground, and $166 million for new telephone instruments and other equipment.

During 1965, the growth of California and its communication needs was reflected in some 10.3 billion local and long distance calls completed by Pacific Telephone in the state, 9 per cent above the previous year.

The company added over 440,000 telephones during 1965 to bring its total in service in California to a record 8.4 million.

Starting Jan. 1, 1966, federal excise taxes paid by the consumer for telephone service will be reduced from 10 per cent to 3 per cent. Pacific Telephone has collected this tax for the federal government for many years. The reduction will put over $76 million into the pockets of customers in Pacific Telephone territory in 1966.
